

300 Passengers, Mostly Women and Children, Lose Their Lives When Austrian Submarine Torpedoes the Ancona in the Mediterranean Sea

LOSS OF ITALIAN SHIP MAY CREATE ANOTHER CRISIS

Recently Placid Outlook in Submarine Trouble Again Disturbed Over the Torpedoing of Ancona—United States Government Will Await Developments Before Deciding What Diplomatic Course to Pursue.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The recently placid horizon in the submarine controversy was clouded ominously today as news dispatches gave evidence that Austria or Germany sank the Ancona without warning, presumably with Americans aboard. Another diplomatic crisis seemed, on the surface, inevitable. State department heads withheld judgment on account of the absence of absolute information to prove what the news dispatches indicated. If the vessel was warned and then attempted to escape, a controversy would be avoided, authorities said, as international law would justify such an action. Just how far Austria is bound by negotiations between America and Germany is another point still undetermined. The logical outcome, in the event it is proved an Austrian vessel was culpable, will be a note to Austria, asking for a disclaimer and reparation and a pledge not to repeat the offense.

department officials stated the intervention of America hinged on whether the vessel was escaping after being warned.

President Wilson is seeking all possible information. It was pointed out that even if Americans were killed, no protest was possible if the Ancona was fleeing after being warned.

Machine Shop is Destroyed by Fire at Bethlehem, Pa.

LARGE SUPPLIES OF MUNITIONS FOR THE ALLIES ARE A TOTAL LOSS.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 10.—Munitions for the allies and machinery worth several million dollars were damaged when machine shop No. 4 of the Bethlehem Steel company was destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at a million dollars. Only the skeleton of the building is left standing. Eight hundred guns were in the shop. Some were intended for the allies and others for the United States. Short circuiting wires caused the fire, officials stated.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—As a result of the fire Bethlehem stock dropped 35 points to four hundred. The stock was once 600.

An ant can carry a grain of corn ten times its weight, while a man or a horse will carry a burden of only their own weight.

1915 Directorate Reelected by Round-Up for 1916 Show

At the annual stockholders' meeting of the Northwestern Frontier Exhibition association, held last evening in the Commercial club rooms, the entire 1915 Round-up directorate was re-elected for the ensuing year with the exception of J. W. Watson, who resigned several months ago because of removal from the city. The other directors, however, were empowered to select a successor to Mr. Watson.

There was no consideration of any other candidates for directors. The splendid showing made by the old board, as told in detail by their individual reports, was more than pleasing to the stockholders and, when R. Alexander moved their re-election, A. J. McAllister promptly seconded the motion and it was carried unanimously and with enthusiasm.

The ten directors thus re-elected were: T. D. Taylor, president; R. W. Hittner, vice president and business manager; Charles H. Marsh, secretary; L. G. Frazier, director of groups; Roy T. Bishop, director of Indians; Sam R. Thompson, director of livestock; F. W. Earl, director of non-competitive events; H. W. Collins, director of exhibition; Dean Tatum, director of accommodations; and Claude Penland, director of parade.

Show Made Money.

The reports of the directors showed that the 1915 show was a financial success as well as a success from every other standpoint. The attendance and receipts for the sixth annual show were larger than the year previous, a fact very gratifying to the stockholders. The total receipts of the association from Nov. 10, 1914, to Nov. 9, 1915, as shown by the report, amounted to $29,579.54 and the total attendance, approximately 34,000.

The total cost of the show was $21,579.54, which was considerably less than the cost of the 1914 show. That the directors were able to make such a saving in expenditures without sacrificing any of the merits of the exhibition, was considered remarkable by the stockholders. A saving was made in every department.

ment, some of the directors reducing the cost of their department more than a thousand dollars.

Stock Triples in Value.
The report of the assets of the corporation shows that the book value of the stock is now more than three times what the stock cost originally. The assets include over $5000 worth of bucking stock, ground equipment, stagecoaches, etc., but does not include the park which was deeded to the city after having been paid for. Various stockholders reported last evening that there are many prominent business men of the city, some of whom have come here since the organization of the Round-up, who would like to own stock in the corporation in order that they might feel some proprietary interest in it. After some discussion it was decided to open up the stock books for any such business men but that the stock should be sold at its present book value. There was a unanimous approval of any solicitation of stock, the idea of all being to add new stockholders only for the purpose of adding to the workers and boosters for the show. No one person will be permitted to take more than one share of stock.

Many compliments were paid to the directors for the success of the 1915 show, particularly because they had much to discourage them. A rousing vote of appreciation was extended to them. W. L. Thompson told of the great advertising Pendleton is receiving at the Panama-Pacific exposition through the showing of the Round-up films in the Oregon building and he recommended that additional sets of films be sent down. J. R. Bailey, first president of the Round-up, declared the 1915 show was the best frontier exhibition ever staged anywhere. He made this statement advisedly, he said, after seeing the show himself after talking with many performers and after perusing the publications devoted to the wild west game. "Pendleton for a square deal" is the way the cowboy speak of the Round-up, he said. Several other stockholders also expressed their sentiments on the way the 1915 show had been conducted.

AMERICANS BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN VICTIMS OF THE LATEST SEA DISASTER

Plans Are Being Drawn for Three-Story Hotel Which Will be Built at Lehman Springs

ABERDEEN, Wash., Nov. 10.—Architect Troutman of Aberdeen, is drawing plans for a three story hotel, 20 cottages, a natorium and a dancing pavilion, to be built by W. H. McCormack at Lehman Hot Springs, 50 miles from Pendleton, at a cost of $75,000.

Interviewed here today W. H. McCormack, owner of Lehman Springs confirmed the Aberdeen report as to the improvements proposed for Lehman. He says lumber for the purpose will be manufactured on the land near the springs and that work will start as soon as possible in the spring, provided that in the meantime he does not sell the resort.

According to Mr. McCormack the first step will be to build a new swimming pool, so as to have it ready for the summer's use. The erection of the hotel and cottages will have to await upon the seasoning of the lumber. The hotel will first be erected and then the cottages. The estimate on the cost of the total improvements is a trifle high, says Mr. McCormack.

It has not yet been determined who will operate Lehman Springs next season but Mr. McNeill, who has had the resort for several years, will not be in charge again.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—"All this peace talk is misplaced," Premier Briand today told a group of American correspondents. "You may rest assured it is not the French who are starting the rumors. Councilmen Vaughn, Montgomery and Phelps compose the natatorium committee and Councilman Vaughn stated this morning that he believes the installation of an electric heater will prove entirely practicable. The Westinghouse electrical company is now putting out electric heaters for

French "Caudron" Greatest Aeroplane and Driver

The French, who have excelled in aeroplanes since the Wright brothers invented them, have produced another wonder in the "Caudron," an aeroplane with two engines and two propellers. It is the fastest heavier than air machine made. Jules Vedrines, one of the famous aviators of France, drives one of these machines with the army and he is here shown in his latest photograph with the medals he lately won. In army raids made up of thirty or forty aeroplanes two Caudrons lead the expedition. Their superior speed makes it possible for them to go ahead of the general body of raiders and fly back.

Italian Liner is Sent to the Bottom off Coast of Tunis Yesterday—Undersea Craft Flies the Austrian Flag, But Opinion Prevails That Destruction of Vessel is Work of Germans—Only 270 are Accounted for as Saved Out of 582 Aboard—Liner May Have Been Attacked Without Warning.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Nearly 300 persons, mostly women and children and possibly including several Americans, lost their lives when a submarine torpedoed the Italian liner Ancona off Bizerta, Tunis, yesterday, according to Lloyd's.

Of the 582 aboard, only 270 have been definitely accounted for as saved. Madrid dispatches, reporting the British destruction of two German submarines off Gibraltar, are deemed significant.

Suggestions are current that a German submarine shielded behind the Austrian flag, was the real perpetrator of what is denounced by the English press as an unpardonable outrage. Whether the attack was without warning, or whether the liner was attempting flight, was not known.

Survivors have been landed at Bizerta, Cape Bon and Ferryville, Africa. Rome advices indicate the heaviest casualties were among the emigrants aboard. That the attacking submarine fired 100 shots at the Ancona gave some ground for the belief she was attempting to escape.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Rome dispatches said the submarine which sank the Ancona, fired 100 shots at her.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—Orders have been given authorities to do their utmost to aid the 270 survivors of the Ancona, reported landed at Bizerta, Tunis. Admiralty officials suspect that the Germans, rather than the Austrians are responsible for the torpedoing of the liner, though the submarine flew the Austrian flag. Authorities said it was natural to expect the Germans would hoist the Austrian colors in case they were operating against an Italian vessel, inasmuch as Italy and Germany are not at war.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—At least two Americans were aboard the Ancona, L. Giger of the Bronx told officials of the Italian line. A letter from his uncle, E. Giger, said he and his wife would leave on the Ancona for New York. The line has received inquiries regarding Mrs. Canfield, Johnson and Mrs. Hoskell of Philadelphia and Adelaide Stangheri and Filbert Mazzarulli of Baltimore. Officials presumed they are Americans.

Ship Carried No Guns.
The Ancona, he added, carried a crew of 160 men. At no time, said Mr. Hartfield, did the Ancona carry guns or munitions of war because it was against the rules of the company to carry war munitions on the same vessels with passengers. The Ancona has been in the Italian line service for six years and with her cargo was valued at more than $1,000,000.

The Ancona played a prominent part in the rescue of passengers from the burning Fabre liner Santa Anna in mid-Atlantic last September 15. She came to the Santa Anna's aid and took off more than 400 passengers. The Santa Anna carried more than 2000 passengers but succeeded in checking the fire and proceeded to the Azores without further assistance from the Ancona.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Petrograd military authorities estimate that there are 110 German infantry divisions in the west, 50 German and 10 Austrian infantry divisions with 11 Austrian-German cavalry divisions on the Russian front and 20 Austro-German divisions invading Serbia.
